AN AWKWARD SITUATION

FAIR AND WARMER WEATHER FIXED UP FOR EASTER PARADE

You may don the new spring bonnet or fedora tomorrow morning and join the boulevard fashion parade without fear of inclement weather, the weather bureau reported last night.

Fair and warmer for today and equally fair and warm for the Easter Sunday procession of style tomorrow was the summary. Balmier southwest winds will help make the day one of delight, it was said.

It was almost summer weather yesterday. The temperature was around 57 degrees at midday and had dropped only 10 degrees by midnight.

Will Gives Girl $5,000 If Unwed When She's 23

Youthful marriages were disapproved by Edward J. Pigott, former member of the board of education and for many years a wholesale commission merchant, according to his will filed yesterday, in which he directed that $5,000 should be paid to his granddaughter, Louise Pigott, if she does not marry before she is 23.

The remainder of the $144,000 estate is to be divided among three sons, who are Otto A. Pigott, 1440 East 9th street; Clarence S. Pigott, 12324 Harvard avenue; and Edward J. Pigott Jr. of St. Louis, Mo.

The $250,000 estate of James W. Nye, retired insurance man, will be divided equally among his widow, Mrs. Anna B. Nye of the Windsor hotel, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary McLaury, 3211 Hyde Park boulevard, and Mrs. Grace Nye Webster, 2634 Dearborn avenue. It was revealed yesterday with the filing of Mr. Nye's will.

Great Neck, L. I., April 10.—(Special.)—Jesse L. Livermore was injured at his country home here on King's Highway and was taken in an ambulance to New York. It is understood that Mr. Livermore walked into a dark stairway and fell twenty feet. He is now connected with the Oriental Steamship company and has been back in San Francisco and other parts of his life. William S. Stock, who lives in Chicago, was the only one who did not attend.

CAL AGAINST TAX SURPLUS REBATE

Prefers to Reduce Levies in Other Ways.

Washington, D. C., April 10.—(Special.)—President Coolidge is inclined to oppose the suggestion for rebates to taxpayers as treasury surplus develop. The scheme was advanced again today by Representative Madden (Rep., Ill.), chairman of the house appropriations committee, who was a caller at the White House.

The President, it was indicated, thinks highly of Mr. Madden's (R. and A. Phila.) judgment with respect to matters of this character, but his first thought is that tax reductions could be accomplished otherwise with less administrative difficulty.

How Surplus Is Used

Under the present plan any surplus which develops in the treasury is used to retire outstanding treasury certificates or other forms of indebtedness. In effect, this means a saving to taxpayers, inasmuch as it reduces the amount of debt on which interest must be paid.

Whether this program could be continued or some other method adopted, the President is not prepared to say, but he believes that a good deal of difficulty would be involved if a rebate would be made to taxpayers of proportionate parts of surpluses above specified amounts.

Huge Sum Is Mentioned

The President prefers the present system. If there is a large and continuing surplus it is possible to revise tax laws and provide a permanent reduction in taxes, according to the President's theory.

Representative Madden predicted that a tax cut of approximately $150,000,000 will be made in the next session of congress. He referred to the treasury estimate of a $175,000,000 surplus for the fiscal year 1925.

De La Salle Institute Is Swept by Fire

Fire which started shortly before 3 o'clock this morning destroyed the two upper floors of De La Salle institute, a four-story Catholic preparatory school at 2437 Wabash avenue. For some time the destruction of the entire building was threatened, but prompt work by firemen confined the flames to the top floors.

Brother Baldwin, a well known Catholic educator, who was sleeping on the second floor, was seriously burned about the head, hands, and lower part of his body before he was rescued. Two boys sleeping on the fourth floor also were rescued. About thirty brothers were sleeping in the dormitory nearby, but it was not touched by the flames.

The fire started in the basement and was carried to the upper floors along a wooden stairway. Little damage was done to the lower floors, except from water. The firemen were handicapped in their fight by a tower on the Wabash avenue side which threatened to fall and Chief Seyffert gave orders to his men to keep at a distance from it. The loss was estimated at $45,000.

De La Salle institute is an old institution which prepares young men for higher institutions of learning. Some of Chicago's leading citizens have been students in the school.

Brother Baldwin formerly was in charge of St. Patrick's school in Chicago. He is now president of the Christian Brothers' college in St. Louis. Last week he came to De La Salle to visit Brother Elmer, head of the school.

Colleges Close Limitations

In each case where a special policeman has been deposited, his authority has been limited strictly to the premises where the necessity for special protection has been indicated, according to Chief of Police Collins. The permits do not allow the special policeman to carry his revolver from the premises where he would be subject to prosecution for carrying concealed weapons as if he were not deputized.

And in many cases, continued the chief, there has been no record of a special policeman becoming involved in a fatal brawl or being charged with flourishing his weapon prominently.

Eighty per cent of the special deputy sheriff stars issued by his office have been given to employees of large business houses or factories where guards are maintained, Sheriff Hoffman asserted. Express messengers, railroad special agents, doctors who frequently are required to make late night calls, and many of the city's most prominent citizens are also listed as special deputy sheriffs with permits to carry guns, the sheriff said.

Requires $25,000 Bonds

Each applicant for a special deputy's privileges is required, he continued, to support his application with strong recommendations from three reputable citizens. The applicant is also required to post a $25,000 bond, which costs him $15 a year. Most of the bonds, it is admitted, are written by Cannon, Carlson, Ringer, Graham & Hoffman, Inc., a firm with offices in the Chicago building, and in which Sheriff Hoffman is a partner.

Concluding that any deputy is under the star to obtain favors or avoid hard trouble is followed with an immediate demand for the surrender of the badge, Sheriff Hoffman said.

GUN PERMITS AND TIN STARS ON THOUSANDS

Badges Sometimes Free Gunmen.

An inquiry yesterday revealed that thousands of Chicagoans, with little or no right, are sporting stars and badges issued by law enforcing and other public officials. In fact, according to one prominent official, the city is in the throes of a "tin star" epidemic which is fast becoming a serious police problem.

While most of the stars serve merely to

...to criticize M. Poincaré's policy in the Ruhr occupation.

M. Poincaré admitted that the previous governments had not repaid advances from the Bank of France, but stressed the point that they never increased the circulation beyond 41,000,000,000 francs ($2,000,000,000) allowed by law.

The government drew on the Bank of France to exceed the limit of circulation since January, M. Poincaré admitted. "The best interests of the country would be served if this discussion ceased and if the difficulties of the treasury suffered an assumption privately by a committee of parliament and were only discussed when they came up with the solutions already worked out."

M. Poincaré leaped up demanding the right to speak, but Premier Herriot continued talking.

"The beginning of our difficulties lies in loans contracted during the war, totaling 145,000,000,000 francs ($7,250,000,000). Four years ago I warned parliament that if the government continued getting additional loans we would eventually face insurmountable difficulties. During the past year period, another 145,000,000,000 francs ($7,250,000,000) was borrowed, at increasing rates of interest."

Foreign Debt Heavy on Nails.

You state that only since I assumed power the public has refused to lend the state. The public did not take up bonds issued in February, 1924, when I did not hold power. Did that failure show that the public did not hold confidence in the Poincaré government? No. Certainly not. Merely they distinguished this issue.

"I do not mention our foreign debt, which weighs heavily on our affairs and exchange. It hampers foreign negotiations to such a degree, sometimes, that we wonder if we still possess complete liberty of action. M. Poincaré accuses us of not controlling the exchange fluctuations. The former government had constituted a committee of experts and obtained a loan from Morgan under onerous conditions because the banker asked us not to expand anything, even for the devastated regions. I constituted similar committees, which the government has not touched."

"I am criticized for not making the treasury difficulties public when I assumed office. But immediately after I formed a cabinet I went to London to negotiate a formidable problem—the Dawes plan—and also wished to balance the budget, and could not have succeeded in either if I had revealed the country's financial status. I ask the support of all parties. You must follow a program to permit France to save herself for other governments which may succeed me."

Poincaré Opposes Attack.

M. Poincaré began his sarcastic attack with a declaration that M. Herriot obviously was blaming the past governments not for their policies but for the difficulties.

"Had he maintained his language of the beginning, I would not intervene," he said. "But yesterday in the chamber and at Fontainebleau he adopted a different tone. It is my duty to defend my colleagues."

With the cutting remarks for which he is known the former premier began tearing him from limb M. Herriot's speech. He replied to M. Herriot's accusations that the former governments threw the country into difficulties by promises of large sums from Germany, by mentioning that France was forced to supply money for the 125,000,000,000 francs ($6,250,000,000) due from Germany and that the government's credit was sufficiently good to get this through interior loans.

Rebuke Herriot's Explanation.

"This was due to the confidence in the country," M. Poincaré retorted.

Here M. Herriot interrupted with: "I am not talking about you."

"I am one with my colleagues," M. Poincaré stated bluntly.

M. Poincaré then mentioned that even Henri Bergson's budget report of 1925 praised the efforts of previous governments to balance the budget. The fact that the budget was balanced this year, he said, was due to the achievements of other governments—not this one.

M. Poincaré jumped up from a back seat and thundered in a booming voice,

Herriot Cabinet Forced to Quit

Edouard Herriot, premier of France until yesterday, when his cabinet was forced to resign as the result of the action taken by the senate.

COOLIDGE PRAISES HERriot's AID TO REPARATIONS WORK

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—President Coolidge paid a tribute today to the ability and character of Premier Herriot, declaring that M. Herriot had come into office with liberal plans. He said the premier had set out to make some settlement with Germany on reparations and had accomplished much.

The President said that, because of this, M. Herriot can take great satisfaction. Mr. Coolidge has said with sympathy the views expressed that M. Herriot's financial difficulties were not of his making, but were inherited.

What the result of the French president's downfall may be, the President feels, will depend much on who succeeds him. In paying his tributes to the French premier the President recalled that he had once been visited by the latter.

which was accompanied in comparison with the almost feminine appearance of M. Poincaré. "No government before M. Herriot ever exceeded the limit allowed the Bank of France and if you talk of M. Herriot's patriotism the senate must note that at the time he was condemning inflation most severely he had already realized this responsibility." Tears flowed down the premier's face.

M. Poincaré reiterated M. Marais' statement, adding that every time a previous government needed advances beyond the legal limit they obtained them legally and in no case was the 41,000,000,000 franc limit exceeded.

M. Poincaré declared that surely the occupation of the Ruhr could not be

HINDENBURG LIKE PRISONER; FEAR HIS BLUNDERING

German Royalists Gag Candidate.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune.
BERLIN, April 10.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, presidential candidate of the Nationalists in the election which will be held on April 26, is the virtual prisoner of his own followers in his villa at Hanover.

Some say he is sick after his emotions of the past week, while others say the Nationalists are surrounding him. The Nationalists are afraid the old man, who is not being familiar with the ways of politicians, might give out political statements upsetting the campaign.

Call Janner Letter a "Break."

The watch over the candidate was increased today after publication of Gen. von Hindenburg's first unsolicited letter. In it the general, answering the letter in which Karl Janner resigned the candidacy, says: "I am sorry to hear that your chances of being elected were so poor."

Dr. Janner's friends believed that the letter was bound to appeal to the masses by its simplicity, so they published it. Immediately there arose a storm in all the papers of Germany. And now the republican papers are shouting "this shows how the Nationalists scared the old man into accepting."

Was Denied Daily Walk.

The Nationalists are trying to explain that this sentence in the field marshal's letter was garbled in transmission. Most of the Nationalist papers in publishing the document carefully omit the first sentence, thus camouflaging the camouflage tactics of war days.

However, it is a fact that the old field marshal is not even allowed to take his daily constitutional. It shows that the followers of former Kaiser William do not hesitate to use violence in their attempts to coerce their candidate into making the campaign.

Herriot Rides ON FRONT SEAT TO CELEBRATE

PARIS, April 10.—[United News.]—Edouard Herriot celebrated his release from office by taking a ride on the front seat of his automobile.

Fresh and racy after a rest and change of clothes, M. Herriot emerged from the Elysee palace, having tendered his resignation to President Doumergue.

"I add to the president, nothing worthy of being inscribed on marble," M. Herriot said to reporters as he walked toward his motor. "Then he hopped up to the seat beside his chauffeur. Noting his secretary's shocked expression, he said:

"Don't protest. You see out, too." Then with an "au revoir but not goodbye" to the reporters, M. Herriot sped away.

JUDGE RETURNS VICE RECORDS; U. S. AROUSED

Olsen Raps Hayes on Torrio Action.

Magistrate Judge Howard Hayes yesterday brought down upon himself the wrath of United States District Attorney Edwin A. Olson when he ordered the return of records of the Torrio-Capone-Cusack vice and booze ring returned to the syndicate without giving the federal government an opportunity to inspect them.

According to Mr. Olson, he advised the judge that his office was "anxious to weigh the carefully kept accounts and notes for their value as evidence in an impending New Orleans-Chicago Mann set and Volstead case now in state of preparation."

Asked to Collaborate.

The district attorney made public a letter he had written to Judge Hayes, in which he asked cooperation to the extent of requesting him not to take any action until April 15. Mr. Olson said he considered the action of Judge Hayes a direct refusal to cooperate with the federal authorities in their efforts to abate interstate vice traffic.

Judge Hayes on Thursday had impounded the records and had set April 22 as the date for the next procedure in the case.

The return of the records was ordered at a special hearing and followed within eighteen hours requests of federal officials in New Orleans that a transcript of the records be forwarded to them.

Said to Be Held.

City detectives seized the records several days ago in a raid on a dealer's office at 2144 South Michigan avenue. Prominent names were said to adorn the books, which outlined various booze and vice transactions. Some of the names were so well known, it was said, that officials pondered and then decided it would be illegal to give outside folks a peep.

Meanwhile, Al Capone was arrested twice last night within ten minutes. Police said he was gambling and carrying revolvers in his car.

Except for getting away, District Attorney Olson said last night there wasn't much for him to do about the case situation.

It was expected, however, that the return and home bureau won't do much more bookkeeping at the old stand.

Capone last night made an attempt to win his freedom on bond but Capt. John Wynn refused to back him and will issue a writ of habeas corpus by Capitol today. The vice chief then contacted himself with sending out for $25 worth of steak to feed his fellow prisoners.

KEENE AND ARCTURUS PARTY SAFE, BUT SHIP IS DISABLED AT SEA

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—A message was received at the division of communications, navy department, tonight indicating that the ship Arcturus, carrying William Keene and a group of men, had been disabled in some way.

The message came from the commandant of the naval wireless station at Halifax, Canada, who stated that he received a message from the Arcturus, which was relayed through two other vessels. The Arcturus apparently was unable to send a message direct to the Halifax station in reply to calls sent from Halifax. The ship had been out of communication for eleven days.

Service Batten Saves Him from Grave of Pauper

A service button found in the coat of Joseph Waulson, a stranger in Chicago, who dropped dead on the street, some days ago, not only kept him from a burial in the potter's field, but gained him interment with full military honors. No relatives of the dead man could be found. But today, a Fort Sheridan firing squad, minister and singers will attend the funeral, expenses of which are shared by the American Red Cross and John J. McNeill, undertaker at 217 North Cicero avenue.

SHEPHERD LOSES DAILY PLEA IN SUPREME COURT

May Indict for Death of Mrs. McClintock.

The supreme court yesterday refused to listen to the bail petition of William D. Shepherd, leaving him no opportunity for freedom pending trial in the William McClintock murder indictment. Then these developments followed:

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the supreme court indicated he would not grant Shepherd's indictment in the death of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock because enough mercury to kill two persons was found in her body and her death was the first step in the sixteen year span that ended with the McClintock $1,000,000 in the technical possession of Shepherd.

Qua Mrs. Shepherd Again.

Mrs. John M. Shepherd, wife of the accused man, is to be questioned again, this time concerning the death of Mrs. McClintock, Assistant State's Attorney Joseph P. Savage said.

C. L. Russ, 709 East 47th street, an undertaker for fifty-five years, informed Lieut. William Blum he examined Mrs. McClintock's body and there was nothing in the embalming fluid that would leave traces of mercury now.

Judge Olson said he believes there were others involved in the deaths of Mrs. McClintock, mother and son, both of whom died in the same house, the undertaker, who said he furnished Shepherd the typhoid germs with which to inoculate McClintock.

Ready for Trial.

"We are ready for trial," State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe said after the supreme court announced its decision. "We would like an immediate trial but we could not get an unprejudiced jury now because Judge Olson is unwilling to influence the public against Shepherd," said Attorney William Scott Stewart, representing Shepherd.

Dr. Charles Krusemark, 132 East 48th street, who attended Mrs. McClintock on her deathbed, said he gave her medicine containing mercury and believed there were no symptoms of mercury poisoning.

Judge Olson said he believed the small quantity of mercury found in the body of his brother, the late Dr. John Olson, was not the cause of death. He indicated he expected a surprise report when the examination by the coroner's chemist is completed.

Statement by Olson.

The coroner's report concerning the murder in the remains of Mrs. McClintock furnished new material for both defense and prosecution. Judge Olson, who initiated the first steps in the investigation and pushed it to its present stage, has been told by a "confidential" source that he was the one who gave Mrs. McClintock when she became the wife, later the widow, of a millionaire. They gained her confidence and she induced her to sell a certain Bay View, Tex. He was the superintendent. She was there.

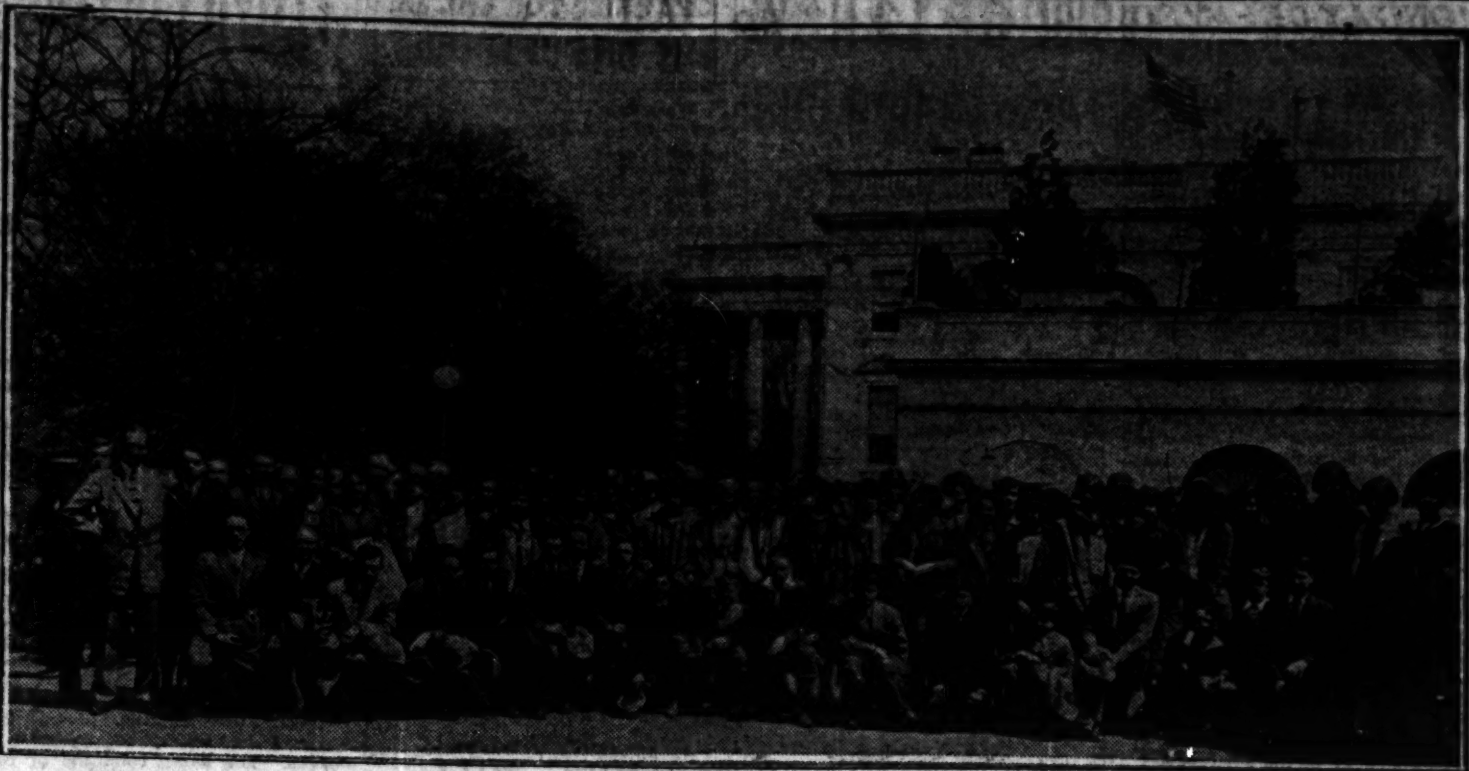

Corried Medicine Himself.

Shepherd gave her medicine out of a bottle he carried in his pocket. He became ill and returned to Chicago. Mrs. Shepherd followed and was present in time to be named as guard of little Billy before Mrs. McClintock died. Then the Shepherds raised the boy to manhood and upon his 21st birthday had him make a will leaving him $1,000,000 to Shepherd.

Then Billy died and the grand jury said Shepherd murdered him. We had to murder a body exhumed to see if he, too, were murdered and we find no mercury in his body.

Murray Stewart said this "mere of Judge Olson's tactics. He knew he couldn't charge Shepherd with the murder. He wanted only to remove the public. Our physician was barred from making the same examination as the coroner's physician. Now do we or any one else know where the mercury was found?"

MERCURY SURE, SUBTLE POISON, DOCTORS ASSERT

Talk on Its Use as a Murder Agent.

Mercury is one of the surest and most deadly of all known poisons. When absorbed by the human system its destructive action upon the tender tissues of the heart, liver, and kidneys is difficult for medical science to combat.

Inquiry among pathologists yesterday revealed that, and other salient facts concerning the fatal drug, a portion of which sufficient to cause death to two persons was found in the vital organs of Mrs. Emma McClintock, according to announcement of Dr. William D. McNally, coroner's chemist.

"Should a person swallow, or otherwise absorb, even a small amount of this powerful poison, or should he secretly have it administered to him by another with criminal intent, the victim's chances of surviving would be exceedingly slim," one well known pathologist declared.

"For unless attending physician were informed of the poison's presence, the patient's suffering might easily be ascribed to something else."

Easy to Administer.

"As an instrument of death in the hands of a would-be murderer, particularly in the hands of one skilled in chemistry and pharmacology, mercury has few equals. The action is slow, subtle, deceptive. When administered in minute amounts, as it may very easily be without exciting suspicion, death creeps upon the intended victim so gradually, yet so inexorably, that it is almost impossible to detect."

SEARCH TRAINS FOR GIRL, 13, AND BROTHER-IN-LAW

Trains bound to the southwest were being searched diligently by detectives last night in an effort to apprehend Stanley Anderson, 25 years old, a steel worker living at 13009 Normal avenue, who is suspected of luring his pretty 13 year old sister-in-law, Anna May Cooper, on a trip west under pretenses of making her a movie star.

The search for the couple, who disappeared simultaneously on Wednesday, was intensified by Anderson's wife, Mrs. Lula Anderson, 25 years old and a bride of three months. Mrs. Anderson declared her husband exhibited an unusual attachment for her younger sister after the latter came from Cleveland, O., to make her home with them.

"I had been downtown looking for work and when I got back they were gone," Mrs. Anderson told police. "I found Anna May had closed out her $123 savings account and that my husband had failed to pay a lot of bills. I traced them to a depot and believe they caught a train to Blaine, Ark."

Anderson was a crane operator for the Illinois Steel company.

CAFE SINGER'S SONG ENDS AS COPS ARREST HER

"My sweetie is a dangerous man," crooned Helen Savage, 24, last night to patrons in the Claremont cafe, 29th street and Indiana avenue, where she is an entertainer. Then police walked upon the floor and arrested the singer. It developed that Miss Savage's sweetie had named her as the receiver of property he had stolen.

Miss Savage was the second woman to be arrested in connection with the questioning of three young men, said to be the "handkerchief bandits" who have committed a number of south side robberies. Mrs. Marjory Brimble, wife of David Brimble, one of the trio, was the first. She possessed a stock of clothing which was said to have been stolen.

Then James Dunne, another of the three, said he had given jewelry to Miss Savage and she was taken into custody. A wrist watch she was wearing was identified as one stolen from Mrs. Anne O'Donnell, 6840 Merrill avenue.

The beer, upon examination, proved to be near-beer, and the driver of the truck, Thomas Remick, 314 West 19th street, and George Kopywch, 6347 Wayne avenue, president of the concern, after questioning were released.

BLAIR PROPOSES MORE TRACTION AND FEWER JAMS

Engineer Gives Analysis of Rush-Hour Problem.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Henry A. Blair, president of the Surface Lines, is asking the city for the privilege of doubling the present transit service in the business district during rush hours. He is waiting for the city to say "yes" or "no."

The present rush hour capacity is 2,331 cars. Mr. Blair offers to supply 4,800 cars. Yet with this increase of 2,469 cars he would have by far fewer cars on the surface of the streets than at present.

A. L. Drum of the engineering firm bearing his name has worked out the plan in detail. Mr. Drum summarizes the benefits in a table showing the present maximum number of cars and the proposed maximum as follows:

Cars per hour—	Present Proposed
On surface lines.....	2,331 4,800
On elevated lines.....	1,228 2,500
Totals.....	3,559 7,300

Rapid Transit Bottled Up.

What Chicago needs is more rapid transit facilities, according to every one acquainted with the subject, and Mr. Drum would increase the rapid transit facilities in a table showing the present maximum number of cars and the proposed maximum as follows:

Mr. Drum shows that in 1916 the surface lines carried 76.2 per cent of the car riders, while in 1924 those lines carried 82.3 per cent. In that fourteen year period the passengers carried on the surface lines increased 57.79 per cent, while on the elevated the increase was only 24 per cent.

Different in New York.

That is not the system in New York. The surface lines in New York carry less than half the percentage which the surface lines in Chicago carry. In New York the major portion of the public has rapid transit facilities.

Mr. Drum says that in 1924 the revenue passengers carried by the surface lines in New York totaled 1,051,405,247, while those using the rapid transit lines aggregated 1,811,538,972 persons. These figures indicate that only 39.3 per cent of the New Yorkers use surface lines, as compared with 82.3 in Chicago. These two figures indicate the difference in the local transportation of the two cities, although they fail to tell the whole story by a long way.

One of the criticisms of the Dever plan, which was taken last Tuesday, was that it did not take any care of the streets in the downtown district. The Blair plan contemplates the elimination of a large number of cars from the downtown street surface.

TORNADO RELIEF FUND REACHES A TOTAL OF $1,012,347 IN CITY

Termination of the work of the city's two trade divisions of the Association of Commerce-Red Cross fund was observed yesterday with a meeting of the chairman at the Association of Commerce. Donations brought the total to $1,012,347.

Chief among the contributions that brought the relief fund to the million mark were $50,000 from W.L.S., the second contribution from that source, totaling $125,000, and $17,369.11 from city employees, presented by Alderman Woodhall, and $23,442.31 from The Tribune-Legion fund. Previously a check for $55,000 had been forwarded by The Tribune-Legion to the Association of Commerce, making a total of more than $115,000 transferred from The Tribune-Legion to the Association of Commerce-Red Cross fund.

Yesterday's contribution to The Tribune-Legion fund amounted to $179.56. The present total is $134,391.73.

Yesterday's contributions to The Tribune fund were:

$45—Grand Crosses court, collected by Judge Francis Borrelli.
$25—Philanthropic department of the Altrinity club of Jefferson Park.
$51.50—Funds of portable school V.L. Park side branch.

$15—Blue Sea club of room 409 Tribune hotel; Cattle hotel guests.

O'Connor, superintendent of the Otis P. Graves school at Summit, Ill., was credited with $22.57 forwarded by him for the pupils of the school on April 6.

in a large number of cars from the downtown street surface.

Blair Offers Service at Cost.

The Blair plan, as did the Dever plan, proposes to give service at cost. Mr. Blair has said: "The city cannot get capital any cheaper than private individuals can. The city cannot get labor cheaper, nor supplies."

The Blair plan at present is in the pigeonhole of the council committee on local transportation. It will not be taken out before April 27, when the new council first convenes and reorganizes. What will be done then depends upon the course which the city administration adopts.

This policy has not been determined. Mayor Dever is at Excelsior Springs taking a rest after the campaign. No announcement is expected from the mayor for ten days at least, except perhaps some generalities. The Blair plan, like all other plans, was shored aside for the Dever program, on the theory that a large majority of the public favored municipal ownership. That assumption was not verified by the referendum on the Dever ordinance. The mayor has not indicated whether he believes that the people still desire M. O. or some other plan.

Mayor May Leave It to Council.

It has been rumored for two days that the mayor probably will urge the city council to take the initiative on any new program. Several aldermen said yesterday that they will not go along with any program unless they are certain that it meets the approval of the mayor. They pointed out that it is useless to attempt the adoption of a program unless the mayor and city council are working in harmony.

BATTLE ROYAL DUE TODAY FOR COUNCIL POSTS

Wage Bitter Fights for Selecting Committee.

City hall circles buzzed yesterday with the probability of a battle royal when the new city council, in session this morning, attempts to select its committee on transportation.

Perhaps the noisiest, if not the bitterest of all the scraps will be the struggle of Ald. Arthur Albert (43d) to win a place on the committee, representing the north side wards from the Forty-first to the Fiftieth, inclusive. Three other aldermen in the same group—Dorsey Crowe (43d), Leo M. Briske (44th), and E. L. Frankhauser (44th)—have been active candidates for the place for several days, with Frankhauser the favorite.

Move to Block McDonough Seen.

Albert's candidacy is inspired, it is reported, by his determination to balk the selection of Ald. Joseph B. McDonough (12th), as chairman of the local transportation committee.

McDonough's announcement that he would seek the transportation committee chairmanship drew a warning from Albert and Ald. Oscar Nelson (44th) that they would make a last ditch fight against the nomination of McDonough or any other supporter of the defeated traction ordinance for the post.

Four other candidates—Dorsey Crowe (42d), John S. Clark (39th), both Democrats, and Guy Guernsey (6th) and Eli Frankhauser (48th)—will race with McDonough for the place, it was indicated yesterday.

Kaindl and Adamowski in Fight.

Another close fight for a committee on committees place is that being staged by Ald. Edward J. Kaindl (34th) and Ald. Max Adamowski (38th) to represent the block of wards from the First to Tenth, Ald. Joseph B. McDonough (12th) the Eleventh to the Twentieth inclusive, and Ald. Dennis A. Horan (21st) the Twenty-first to the Thirtieth inclusive.

A special meeting of the council for the purpose of fixing the date of a special election in which voters of the Twenty-third ward will choose a successor to the late Ald. Joseph O. Kostner has been called for next Tuesday morning. The call was signed by Ald. Jacob M. Arvey (24th), Ernest M. Cross (19th), and W. R. O'Toole (14th) and filed in spite of an opinion by Corporation Counsel F. M. Busch that a special meeting before the new council was organized may be illegal.

FASCISTS HURL DEATH PENALTY THREAT AT FOES

Communists Warned
After Murders.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1935, by The Chicago Tribune.)

ROME, April 10.—Assassinations in the streets in Bologna and Ferrara between communists and fascists in recent days have resulted in the secretary general of the fascist party, Sig. Farinacci, issuing a proclamation today that drastic measures will be taken by the fascists, including a bill reestablishing capital punishment, which Italy was the first among the big nations to discard and exile for enemies of fascism.

Premier Mussolini's right hand man, Numerous mysterious murders, of which fascist militia men were the victims, and reprisal riots, resulting in many deaths this spring, marked the first outbreak of violence this year, and the fascist leaders are determined to check the unrest before anything serious happens.

Threatened with Exile.

"Besides the restoration of capital punishment," reads the proclamation, "we demand compulsory deportation—meaning exile to one of Italy's islands—for those suspected of extremism and exile for Senator Albertini, former Minister Amendola, the Socialist leader in the chamber of deputies, Sig. Turati, and immediate apprehension of the leaders of the extreme opposition under charges of criminal association against the power of the state. Fascism, while it holds power, cannot countenance anarchism. Murder, the government must act in twenty-four hours."

100 Deputies on Strike.

Sig. Amendola is the leader of the entire opposition group, five political parties, whose 100 deputies have been striking for nine months, refusing to attend the sessions since the Matteotti murder. The liberal organ, Mondo, refuses to publish the proclamation, saying the police do not permit discussion or comment on publications.

Threatened with Exile.

MOURNING BLACK MARKS STARVING MINERS' DOORS

Sydney, Cape Breton, N. S., April 10.

(Copyright, 1935, by United News.)

With Easter approaching in an outlook of bleak despair, it was Black Friday today among the hungry men, women, and children of this colony who are facing starvation while coal miners and operators are locked in a struggle over wages.

All buildings are hung in mourning—where the tenants could afford to purchase the cloth—churches, were filled with men and women praying for an end of their privation, and those who could not go to church because of lack of clothing dropped on their knees in their squalid hovels and asked deliverance.

Relief workers, doling out fish, bread, and tea, hustled about among the 20,000 persons who rely upon these meager offerings.

All differences of religion have been dropped in the struggle following the walkout of 15,000 miners a month ago—a walkout which has resulted in entire communities becoming public charges, doubling the death rate, filling the hospitals, and striking the whole region.

Families with nine and ten children are living in two room company houses with not enough clothing to cover their bodies. Mothers expecting children have been without food for four days.

"Many is the time thousands have gone without food for three or four days," Mrs. William Bea, commander of the New Aberdeen relief committee and head of the Salvation Army there, says.

"If the good housewives of the United States would bundle up their old shoes, stockings, and underclothing and ship them, the Canadian Express company has announced it will handle them free if they do not weigh more than 100 pounds."

KAROLYI—PADLOCKED
OPINION.

Countess Karolyi has tried to get the state department padlock taken off her husband, the one time president of the one time Hungarian republic. She hasn't much luck, but it is said with dubious authority that the count will be allowed to come back here and make a lecture tour. He is sailing for Europe. The Tribune has tried to find out what it is all about in the Karolyi case, but the state department wishes to rest on previous statements made in the matter. Those statements, including one by Secretary Hughes, did not throw much light on the subject.

Mr. Hughes said that congress kept alive the war act of May 23, 1918, which granted the President, in time of war, power to put restrictions on the entry of aliens if public safety required it. In 1922 congress re-enacted the law as a rider to a diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. Seemingly the state department concluded that public safety required the padlocking of Karolyi.

It doesn't appear that the law demanded that the count refrain from discussing political matters while he was in the United States. The state department elected to impose this condition on him. An unofficial explanation for the ruling was that the count has a reputation for making mischief. Making mischief for whom? If he were allowed to tell the American people his opinion of Morthy, the Hungarian dictator, would that threaten the security of the United States?

The people of the United States decided against the league of nations. Lord Robert Cecil came over and told them they had made a wrong decision. We did not think that he ought to have been muted. Clemens came over to plead the cause of France, Lloyd George the cause of Great Britain. Special pleaders are forever coming to the United States. Irish patriots worked here for sympathy and support against Great Britain and for the Irish republic.

America has held that so long as they did not instigate disorders they could plead their cause. Some of them have promoted causes which were not good for the United States. Karolyi thinks that the Hungarians people are being abused by a military autocracy and that the American people are foolish to give financial support to ambitious tyrants which may produce another war in the course of time.

We do not vouch for his intelligence, but if he is to be shut up the criticism by aliens in the United States of existing conditions elsewhere in the world is stopped. A Hindu cannot say what he thinks of British rule in India. Kerenky would be padlocked if he wanted to talk of soviet Russia. Any visitor to the United States would have to give bond on entering that he would not discuss public affairs. The state department had Karolyi spotted in advance, but you never can tell when a firebrand might get in without previous identification and knock out bureaucracy ally, or siller than it is, by saying that the Kups had a good case against the Turks, that Abol-E-Krim was a patriot, or that Peru was getting a raw deal from Chile.

Karolyi says his successful enemy has been the Hungarian minister Count Smocznicki, husband of the former Gladys Vanderbilt, and that it was the Vanderbilt influence which tied him up in blankets. Maybe American social influence can be used at home by foreign governments just as it is used when the American family gets abroad. We don't know, but we do know that bureaucracy's pressure in life and main business is telling the citizen, as well as the alien, the number of his stall and the time to head in.

STATE POLICE.

Two bills, each intended to give Illinois a state police force, are being considered by the legislature. One of them, the Dunlap bill, resembles closely the proposal which has several times been defeated. Gov. Deneen is expected to veto it if it passes in its original form.

The other bill is the Barr bill. It establishes a police force which will be as useful as the governor wishes to make it. It may be a force as efficient as the Pennsylvania troopers or it may bring only pretense to the governor.

While the legislature is wrestling the need for highway police becomes greater. The building of hard roads and the use of automobiles by gamblers have caused serious loss of life in the rural districts. Bankers and merchants in the smaller towns have made their appeal for protection so strong and insistent that the legislature is in a quandary to pass a state police measure. The state will be the loser if no force is established at this time.

Clearly the supporters of the two bills should get together and compromise their differences. This legislature must establish only the principle of a

THE THOMPSON PLAN
NEXT?

The Dever traction plan is laid away with the others which have been offered to the people of Chicago and defeated. That settles this particular plan, a good one in our opinion, but it does not settle the question. It remains, and it will keep on getting bigger. Now what?

Probably the next thing tried will be the Thompson-Lundip traction district plan. A bill to create the district is in the legislature. A similar one was defeated four years ago. This one will pass if Small, Thompson, and Lundip can get enough votes. They may be able to.

The Dever plan provided that the earnings of the lines should pay for the existing properties and make the extensions. That is the way nearly all enterprise is conducted. A railroad pays its interest, retires its bonds, makes its improvements, etc., out of its earnings.

The Thompson plan is the reverse of this. It relies on taxes instead of earnings for purchases, operations, and improvements. It would fix a fare at 5 cents and make up deficits out of taxes. The control under the Dever plan was not to be political. Under the Thompson plan it must be political.

Probably the car users beat the Dever plan, being afraid that the car fares would be greatly increased to bear the costs and not trusting the estimates of responsible experts who assured the people that this would not be the case.

The taxpayers, some of whom are interested as car users and some of whom are not, will be the ones chiefly interested in the Thompson plan. Taxes eventually are passed on in the rent, food, doctor bills, etc., but that fact does not always count for much in the consideration of such a case as this.

The Thompson plan may be the next to bat.

BABE RUTH AND TOM
GIBBONS—A HEALTH
LESSON.

Babe Ruth was taken off the train in New York on a stretcher and carried to the hospital, having a convulsion every other block or so. His physician says he isn't in danger and will soon be out, but Ruth said he was feeling mighty bad, and he acted it. His main trouble is eating.

In professional sports the model of correct living is Tom Gibbons, the heavyweight prizefighter. Gibbons is 38 years old and he is regarded as the class of the white heavyweights, aside from Dempsey. He is always in trim. He has been abstemious all his life. He never drank and never smoked. He sleeps nine hours and he follows a correct diet. When he is training he cuts his meals down to two a day.

Most prizefighters are out long before they reach Gibbons' age. He is going strong. Ruth has a marvelous physical equipment. It has made him the greatest baseball player of record. He was a great pitcher. He is the greatest cloutier of home runs. He is a great outfielder.

In 1921 he made fifty-nine home runs, breaking his own record of fifty-four of the year before. In 1922 Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Nationals beat him out with forty-two. Ruth was out of the game part of the season. In 1923 he and Cy Williams of the Philadelphia Nationals tied with forty-one. Then Ruth said he would cut out some of his habits, including drink. He had been getting into trouble. He did quit, and last year he was on top with forty-six home runs.

No such record stands by any other ballplayer's name, but Ruth, even when he cuts out alcohol, abuses his physical equipment. He is an enormous eater, particularly in the winter. He takes on fat, twenty or thirty or more pounds of it. When he has to go to training he tries to boil the fat out of himself. He gets some of it off, but he so weakens himself that he breaks down. He is then particularly susceptible to colds and the grip. That is the trouble with him now. He collapsed and got a touch of the flu.

Gibbons and Ruth both were endowed with wonderful bodies. Ruth has handicapped his. Gibbons has protected his. Ruth tries to dig his grave with his teeth, a thing which many people do. He is too big and strong to be completely floored and he can carry a weight of habits which would put another man out, but it puts him out temporarily every season. He was sick at this time last year and the year before, and for the same reason, trying to get rid of the fat he had put on by neglecting the rules to which Gibbons adheres and to which every person valuing physical fitness adheres.

Ruth's story is one of self-indulgence and an almost perfect body. The two do not stay together very long.

Editorial of the Day

[The New York Daily News.]

New York may or may not have the privilege of viewing the art treasures of the late Senator William A. Clark, now in the Clark mansion at 5th avenue and 71st street. While they are left to the Metropolitan museum, the will makes conditions regarding their display that will cause much scratching of heads among the trustees.

Naturally enough, Senator Clark arranged that acceptance of his paintings, sculptures, tapestries, and the other rare and beautiful things in his collection should provide a permanent memorial to himself. They must be shown in a separate gallery or galleries, and by themselves.

The museum authorities are well aware that in the course of time acceptance of gifts requires large quarters for their sole display would cause the galleries to spread over a considerable portion of Central park. They must weigh the artistic value of the Clark bequest against the carefully laid plans for the museum's logical and inevitable growth.

It will be unfortunate if the string Senator Clark attached to his $2,000,000 gift compels the museum reluctantly to deprive New York of the opportunity to obtain the collection. It would be still more unfortunate if the trustees let down the bars and attempted to provide space for the display, in a unit of everything wealthy men considered art and willed to the museum. Such a procedure would give us eventually not a great, well-balanced museum but a bewildering hodge-podge.

The trustees will devote to the Clark bequest and the conditions the careful study that has made the Metropolitan museum the wonderful institution it is today. The public can be certain that, whether the decision says yes or no, it will be based on sound consideration of the museum's best interests.

WHEN THE DOCTOR IS ILL.
DOCTORS and their families are prone to have colds, coughs, and sore throats. If we accept the reports made by 500 army, navy, and public health service physicians as to their own health and that of their families during 1924:

The report shows that each person in the group of 1,600 had an average of two and a quarter attacks. Of these a little more than one-half were reported as colds, nearly one-fourth as bronchitis, one-twelfth as influenza, one-twelfth as sore throat. Only twelve cases of tonsillitis and four cases of pneumonia were reported. The list of these threats completed the above list of ailments which the doctor and his family suffered from.

Only twelve cases of tonsillitis and four cases of pneumonia were reported. The list of these threats completed the above list of ailments which the doctor and his family suffered from.

The distribution by seasons showed January, February, March, and November to be the very bad months. The drop in sickness between March 31 and April 15 was very striking. The unexpected showing of this study on the point of seasonal distribution was the high sickness rate of November. But the sickness rate in November was low, but the sickness rate is high. If a way could be found to stop the colds and sore throats of November we would be on the way toward stopping the high pneumonia rate of March.

The age distributions were of interest. The sickness rate was highest in the children under 4. Next came children 5 to 15. The healthiest group were the adults 15 to 25. Persons 25 to 45 had higher sickness rates than those over 45. There were very few old people in the families of these physicians—the group 55 years old and over was a small one.

Of the children under 5, one-eighth got through the year without a cold or cough. Of the group 15 to 25 years of age, one-third had that happy experience. Of the children 10 to 15 years of age, one-quarter escaped.

Here is the way this report was compiled. Five hundred medical officers of the United States Army were requested to keep a record of all illnesses of their persons or the persons of all members of their families for one year and to send the facts to the central office. This report relates to no kind of illness except acute infections of the lungs, tubes, throat, and nose.

In all probability the report is a good possession or payment of taxes. If the value is too small to make such course worth while of itself, it may be used for contentment with simply paying the current and subsequent accounting taxes.

AN OPINION ON PARANOIA.
Miss M. H. writes: I recently read your article on dementia praecox and I would like to tell you what I believe was a mistake in it. Since a member of the family became an unfortunate victim of the disease, I have read all I could find on dementia praecox.

All the books I have read say that catatonia is the most favorable of the three kinds and paranoia the least. I have only one book on hand from which I quote, and that is "The Mind in Paranoia," by Dr. E. C. Spitz. It says that paranoia affords, on the whole, a more favorable prognosis than simple hebephrenia, and that hebephrenia affords a more favorable prognosis than dementia praecox; dementia praecox presents a picture of the disease which is almost as unfavorable as that of fully developed paranoia.

WANTS TEMPORARY INVESTMENT.
Chicago, April 7.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1915 my mother left me one lot in Texas. I owe back taxes on one of the lots from 1915 to 1921. I have been told that another party is paying taxes on them. When I wrote the collector he told me he wrote back saying that he did not know why the other party was paying the taxes. What would you advise me to do? If the lot is of substantial value, I would like to know what you would advise me to do so that I can recover it.

Oak Park, Ill., April 6.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A man changed his name without court proceedings. A life insurance policy is all he has with his old name on it. What should be done to have his name changed on that? Would he have to employ an attorney and go through court with it? I. G.

LIABILITY OF LANDLORD.
Chicago, April 7.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A roomer's room was entered, doubtless by pass key, during his absence, and all of his clothing was stolen. Is the landlord responsible for loss of these things and can the roomer recover by bringing suit? L. H. B.

CHICAGO.—[Editorial.]—If the fall of Richmond and Petersburg produced a spontaneous, off-hand outburst of rejoicing, the surrender yesterday with such a universal uprising, outpouring, procession, and celebration, including banner-dragging, bonfire-burning, rocket-blasting day of glory as Chicago and its people have never before seen.

WASHINGTON.—There is good authority for the statement that the rebel armament of the trans-Mississippi states have already followed the example set by Lee and surrendered or disbanded and gone home. Washington is intoxicated with joy over the surrender of Lee and the prospects of an early peace.

NEW YORK.—A Tribune special says that three companies of Mosby's guerrillas disbanded at Culpeper and went to their homes.

WASHINGTON.—No news has been received of the surrender of Gen. Johnston's rebel army. Gen. Sherman's operations in North Carolina interrupted telegraphic communication between Johnston and Lee's armies, and it is feared that Johnston might be several days before official intelligence of the fact reached Washington.

CHICAGO.—Republican candidates for city offices nominated at the recent convention are requested to meet at noon today at the office of J. B. Rice, the nominee for mayor.

CHICAGO.—There were printed and sold yesterday morning's issue of The Tribune 12,000 copies. This is probably the greatest number ever issued in one edition by any paper in the northwest.

AMSTERDAM.—The British steamer "Harpoon" was torpedoed seven miles off Noordwijk. The vessel sank within five minutes and there was no time to lower the boats. Fifty-two of the crew were saved, only two dying. The "Harpoon" was the first relief ship sent by New York state to the Belgians and under its charter to the Belgian relief commission had a permit granting immunity from attack.

IRVING, N. Y.—[By Floyd Gibbons.]—Gen. Villa is engaged in battle with the forces of his former friend, Gen. Alvaro Obregon, whom Villa now considers a traitor to his country. The battle has been in progress for days near Culaga and the loss of life has been heavy on both sides. About 4,000 men are engaged.

On April 4 they eloped to London with a few friends and were married. Mrs. Barry had planned to bring her daughter out in society next fall. A telegram broke the surprising news to her.

RESURRECTION.

Spring is not the time to remember
Dreams that died in the fall,
Daily she hears a cardinal whistle
Stirring the old, old call....

She wounded her dream with a kiss in the autumn,
Pierced it until it bled,
Left it to die where the road is winding
Lonely and weary and dead....

Long winter days are times for sleeping,
Buried deep in the cold,
Never a person could tell she was grieving,
Mourning a dream grown old....

Spring is not the time to remember
Dreams that died in the fall,
Daily she hears a cardinal whistle
Stirring the old, old call....

KITTY DOES SOME THINKING.

R. H. L. Kitty Pussywallow purred contentedly to herself as she swung to and fro in the warm April sunshine. She was very happy. Only an hour before a tired robin had passed the time of day with her and, like all traveling salesmen, had told her she was exceedingly pretty....

Well, she guessed he was right at that, and all unconscious of the fact that she might have an unobstructed view of her charms in the wrinkled surface below.... She thought....

Oh, she thought all sorts of things.... For instance.... gray and red made a very pleasing combination according to this year's spring styles.... she'd show that bunch of morning glories around about that old oak tree later on a thing or two.... she'd.... but then these traveling men.... especially those flashy dressers, weren't dependable.... here one season and gone the next.... perhaps it would be better to take that young Tommy Willow over there with his feet in the water.... Now that her mind was made up, Kitty Willow purred contentedly to herself and swung sleepily in the warm April sunshine.

In one camp Mr. Mencken is proclaimed "A STIFF BREEZE TO THE INTERLUDE", while in the opposing one, the verbiage is cut away and he is designated more simply as the STIFF!.... Let them fight it out in the back lots.... Quite the truest résumé of H. L. M. that we have ever come across is in a recent communication from a young "scop" on the Terre Haute Street....

...a salve for despair and discouragement. I always think of him (Mencken) as a well built Teuton, sitting with chubby red cheeks and laughing because the world smokes and can't burn."

EXPLANATION OF A TENDENCY TOWARD FLIRTATION.

Knowing you wiser than all other men,
And infinitely fairer, still I find
My wayward heart persistently inclined
To test their subtle differences. When I love myself most wholly, even then
Why this man's eyes are cruel, or this one's kind,
Is exploration suited to my mind,
That, like a bird, flies hence and back again.

Dorothy Dow.

And yet this wanton heart, impelled to roam
For this man's hair of black, or eyes of blue,
This heart that turns from you, goes back to you
A little piteously, after all,
As timid children, hasten, frightened, home,
When evening shadows fall.

Dorothy Dow.

BEAUTY.

The world is too full of beauty for me; for only beauty makes you suffer; beauty makes you more hungry than the savannahs of heat and more thirsty than the failure of the clouds to rain; you suffer on beholding beauty because you desire more of it than you will ever possess. Is this not so? There is a beauty of the stars. Can you reach them? There is the beauty of the deep sea. Can you follow it? There is the beauty of the hill-road that turns to gold when the sun sets up his lordly altars in the west. Can you walk that road when you need to walk it? There's the mooning beauty of children, but they laugh and run from you when you would catch them and kiss the top of their silken heads. And there is the beauty of a woman,—wraith-like, intangible, unpossessed! Whoever possessed the beauty of a woman? Yet, there is a beauty the soul possesses. The body dies; there is a beauty the eye must behold before it is slain. And there is not why many are blind and more—dead? I tell you that the unobtainable cannot cause suffering; the unobtainable may cause pity and scorn and healing, but only the beautiful break the heart.

And what breaks the heart? The beautiful? This: that there is no beauty to match it. Oh, the world is too full of beauty for me! ANOBERNA.

Chicago, April 7.—Municipal ownership of public utilities is "an exploded theory of bombastic idealists." Give private capital a franchise for a reasonable length of time—with provisions for building a definite amount of additional mileage each year. Have a revocable clause for failure to perform. Enforce these provisions without procrastination.

This is not a Utopian solution but will get there "furthest with the mostest."

Chicago, April 7.—Chicago should follow Evanston and Oak Park in respect for the Sabbath. We have six days for amusement, and why be hogish with our Lord? Just think of it, our time in this world does not equal one-half a second to our time in the next. Of course, our moviehouse friends will bark like a dog, but this will help to better them and save them. I am no preacher, but thank God I respect the Lord and believe in Him. I want to thank Evanston and Oak Park for respecting the Sabbath and being foes to moviehouses.

Chicago, April 7.—"You say" legalizing 2.75 per cent beer would "take steam out of the temper of citizens." But what group or kind of citizens?
I have a query. If the Volstead law is so repulsive to such a majority, why does not that said majority elect men who have the opportunity, congressman with a leaning toward amending the law?

HITTING FRANCE BELOW THE BELT.
Chicago, April 7.—Your suggestion that France hand over the islands of Miguelon and St. Pierre in order to substantially reduce her debt to America seems unjust, because a plan which demands the annexation of territory for debt contracted during a war in which the doughboy and the polli were allies and struggling for their very existence is contrary to the spirit of America. I feel that to demand territory to be eventually utilized as a modern Highland arena of the very worst kind of European imperialism. We all of us know of the Frenchman and his honor, and the Latin mentality has always puzzled the Americans and Britons. Imagine the feelings of an American

BRITAIN BENDS TOWARD UNITED MILITARY ARMS

Move On to Co-ordinate
Air, Army, and Navy.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, April 10.—While controversy is raging in America over the proposal to establish an air ministry independent of the military—using the word in its widest sense—opinion is turning in England toward the unification of arms under a single ministry of defense.

The matter is now under the consideration of the committee of imperial defense, and when the earl of Balfour, who is one of the most powerful members of the committee, returns from Palestine the subject will be taken up seriously and argued to a conclusion. I have reason to believe that a majority of the members of the committee are in favor of union, while the cabinet, on whom the ultimate decision rests, is divided. This is natural, as the existing ministers of the army, navy and air are not willing to give up their independence, but public opinion, seeking economy and efficiency, is turning steadily toward unification.

Ministers Favor Division.

It is the natural tendency of the air ministry to exalt its own requirements, minimizing those of the army and navy. To a less degree the same applies to the army and navy.

Experience during the war showed that this cooperation was absolutely necessary to victory.

These are questions which are being considered seriously by the Baldwin cabinet, and which are likely to be solved by it.

A definite proposal under consideration is the creation of one ministry of defense under a first class secretary of state. The present organizations of the admiralty, war office, and air force would be maintained as sub-departments, each under the control of an assistant secretary, who, however, would not be a member of the cabinet. These assistants would prepare their estimates separately and these would be submitted to the minister of defense, who would coordinate them.

It is pointed out that the present system leads to untold waste. The army has a budget which pays no attention to the navy, while both ignore the air force. All three sometimes are in the market for the same materials, paying up prices against each other.

May Bring Better Way.

The same theory applies to unified command, particularly regarding the use of air power. It is now in the power of the air commander to decide between the demands of the army and the navy.

It is significant that the chief advocate of unified command is Winston Churchill, who has had experience in all three arms. He has been a professional soldier, lawyer, naval problem from the angle of the first lord of the admiralty, and was one of Great Britain's earliest fliers.

SECRET PACT TO SELL TURKEY TO BRITAIN FOUND

Blame Ex-Sultan's Aid
as Treaty Father.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 10.—A historic document that played a leading role in the Turkish Nationalist movement was discovered by Tass today. It is an alleged secret treaty between Great Britain and Grand Vizier Damad Ferid, representative of Sultan Vahid Eddine, under which the latter sold the Ottoman empire to Great Britain in return for the maintenance of his own dynasty. The text is as follows:

"Constantinople, Sept. 12, 1913. The following articles were fixed between Mr. M. Churchill, Mr. H. Nouhan, and Mr. Kreteb, authorized to sign for the British government, and Grand Vizier Damad Ferid, authorized to sign for the Ottoman empire:

"Article 1. A British mandate to assist materially in founding British rule in Iraq and Syria, agreeing to maintain the caliph and all his influence at the service of Great Britain in other Moslem countries as well as Iraq and Syria.

"Article 2. Great Britain will form an armed force in the interior to destroy any national movement opposing the semi-constitutional government that will be founded in Turkey.

"Article 3. Turkey disclaims all rights over Egypt and Syria.

"Article 4. The British government undertakes to support the Turkish cause and its acceptance.

"Article 5. The sultan will conclude a treaty with the British government after fixing peace terms.

Treaty Absolutely Secret.

The treaty was semi-official and absolutely secret. Agreements were arranged, accepted and signed in duplicate between the two sets of negotiators at Constantinople. They forwarded the alleged treaty to Mustafa Kemal Pasha in Anatolia late in September, 1913. He is said to have made an exact copy of the original in the office of Damad Ferid, who was foreign minister as well as grand vizier. As the copy was thoroughly trustworthy, the nationalist leaders placed full confidence in the report, which became the driving force of the nationalist movement.

If the treaty is authentic, its chief importance is more or less to justify the action of M. Francis Bouillon in making a separate peace with Mustafa Kemal Pasha in 1911, which largely helped bring the great Turkish victory over Greece and the Turkish diplomatic victory at Lausanne.

reducing course for $5.00

As a special inducement to take a complete course of San-I-Sal baths, your druggist will give you a beautiful reducing course—your figure again in slim, youthful lines of beauty.

world over and take mineral baths. Men and women take these baths to lose weight, improve their health, and to rejuvenate the entire body.

Scientific research determined the most effective ingredients and the proper strength in such mineral baths. To these were added oil of pine and balsam as is done in European health resorts. Thus science improves on nature by combining these two types of baths of recognized value in this new and effective formula, SAN-I-SAL, protected by patent.

A San-I-Sal bath is therefore a far better treatment than a natural springs bath of similar type. And you can take it in your own bathroom.

Many people have taken off
2 to 5 pounds in one bath

You merely put San-I-Sal into your hot bath. It dissolves quickly, giving the water beneficial weight-reducing properties. As you bathe, enjoying the fragrant aroma of pine woods, the pores of your entire body will be opened and their pent-up wastes poured out. After the bath you'll sleep with the soundness of a child.

The following day you'll feel years younger. Many people have taken off from 2 to 5 pounds in their first San-I-Sal bath. This is but natural if you are much overweight, for the relaxing of pores that perhaps have seldom been properly exercised is sure to release a considerable quantity of accumulated useless weight.

An aid to a clearer, softer skin

San-I-Sal, by finding the pores of your body, opens them, sends out the skin and is clearing up your skin. San-I-Sal baths are also taken by many people nowadays to relieve rheumatism and other pains, break up a persistent cold, and up the body, and rid it of that tired, languid feeling.

Prescribed by doctors

Dermatologists and various institutions order San-I-Sal in large quantities for their patients. It requires nothing that can possibly be harmful. Just add a small amount of San-I-Sal to your bathwater, combined with oil of pine and balsam.

Ask your druggist what he thinks of San-I-Sal when asked to comment on the latest and best weight-reducing remedy. Then you try it. One San-I-Sal bath in every fortnight. Price $1.00. If your druggist hasn't it, write to the San-I-Sal Laboratories, 230 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

GUARANTEE We guarantee to refund your entire purchase price if your first San-I-Sal bath does not produce weight loss from 2 to 5 pounds.

People who buy bonds make a rich market

FREDERICK DOYLE, Advertising Manager of
H. O. Stone & Co., a firm with a Chicago history dating back to 1835, volunteered the following statement:

"Everybody knows that our bond business was built up on advertising in The Sunday Tribune and that it is still the main support of our rapidly growing bond sales.

"You will be interested to hear, however, that we are getting very fine results from the use of The Daily Tribune.

"During the months of December, 1924, and January of this year, we used more space in The Daily Tribune than ever before, with really surprising results.

"While the sales possibilities of these news inquiries are only beginning to be worked out, we know from past experience that the quality is high, the ads being similar to others we have run.

"With these more than satisfactory results, we have determined, for our financial advertising, constantly to make greater use of The Daily Tribune."

Good Friday Music Gives Elmer Thrill

Lutheran Choir Sings a
Cantata for Radio.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

How different the tone and spirit of Good Friday music! Not in a hopeless minor key, yet in it there is tragic sadness, tempered with mellow tenderness.

Fortunate indeed were those who heard the sacred cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ" (Dubois), sung by the Redeemer Evangelical Lutheran church choir and soloists, from W-G-N, 3 to 4 o'clock. It was perfect in its execution.

The most of us have recognized Marie Boyd Mitchell as a soprano of excellent vocal qualities and attainment, but I for one was completely astonished at the subtlety of her work in the soprano role of this cantata. She became the very embodiment of the character itself. Matthew M. Power, baritone, was glorious also. He ennobled everything he sang. The choir, too, was perfect in this apparently difficult musical score.

The occasion was further made memorable for the appearance of Wilhelm Middelschulte at the organ.

No wonder this cantata is so generally used on Good Friday, for it is meditative and dramatic, having a total character of its own, and extremely impressive.

The same cantata was heard from WEAF, New York, 9 to 10, given by St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal church choir of Brooklyn, accompanied by a stringed orchestra and the organ, but some reception interfered with its enjoyment. This latter broadcast made it clear that the organ is preeminently the instrument for the accompaniment of sacred music.

Another cantata, "The Lamb of God," was sung by the Tabor Evangelical Lutheran church choir at WBBH, 7 to 8, with competent soloists, and accompanied on the piano. This cantata is entirely new to the writer. It is effective in spots, but it seems a little slow in action. However, great efforts were made with repeated hearings.

The Salvation Army staff band gave a sacred program at WLS at 7:30, and where this band is good music is. If anything, the members seemed, as they undoubtedly were, inspired to even finer, even smoother, even more mellow playing by the thought of the solemnity of the day.

W.D.A. Pittsburgh, 7:45 to 8:25, another favorite cantata, "From Olivet to Calvary," was given a glorious reading by the Second Presbyterian church choir of Wilkesburg, Pa. The reception from this station was excellent, and the distance lent an impressive quality all its own.

An illustrated musical lecture on Wagner's "Parsifal" was given by Henry Purmort James at WEBB, 9 to 10. But our cold-hearted pianos simply refuse to transform this complexly scored music-drama into anything like a mere recital. The lecture, however, was instructive and timely.

The Jackson Boulevard Christian church choir gave a fine sacred concert at WMAQ, 10 to 11.

The Apollo Male quartet, a sacred program on the late KTW program. Also a Good Friday program by a male quartet from St. Patrick's church. Fine program, well executed, by both organizations.

CZECH CABINET THREATENED BY CHURCH BREAK

Catholics Embittered by Religious Tax.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Special Tribune Staff Writer.) PRAGUE, April 10.—The separation of the church and state in Czechoslovakia last month has become an issue when the cabinet may fall, and the opposition form a new government, strengthened by the Catholic party, which is a member of the government coalition.

The action of the city council of Prague in placing a discriminatory tax on Catholics has embittered the struggle going on since the foundation of the republic.

The question, coupled with the Vatican's assertion of its right to appoint an administrator for the portions of the Hungarian archbishopric within Czechoslovakia, has brought the fight to a point where the Foreign Minister is seeking a new affiliation in order to maintain power.

See Vatican Accord.

"We cannot and will not accept a Vatican appointment of an administrator over our heads," M. Benes said today. "I am sure the Vatican will meet us. There will be compromise on both sides leading to a settlement."

M. Benes dismissed the question of discriminatory taxes as a hasty measure, which would not take effect. He indicated that there would be changes before the question of the church was settled.

The foreign minister is more optimistic than other leaders, who say there will be a long drawn out struggle, possibly wrecking the present government.

AGED PRELATE TO LEAD CANADIANS TO "HOLY CITY"

Montreal, Que., April 10.—(Special.) Led by the aged Cardinal Beaudry, Roman Catholic prelate of all Canada, a pilgrimage to Rome is planned in the celebration of holy year which will start on Tuesday, May 1, when a specially chartered vessel will sail from Montreal and Quebec.

The first stop is at Bordeaux, and at that point the holy year pilgrims will disembark and continue their journey by rail, stopping at Lourdes to visit the famous shrine, then proceeding to Carcassonne, Marseilles, Nice, and Genoa, en route to Rome. The vessel is the Minotaur. Seven hundred passengers will be aboard. Some will be from the United States.

Pope Pius has advanced the date of the canonization of Mother Berard, founder of the Sacred Heart order in America, to May 24, Pentecost Sunday, to conform with the arrival of the Canadian pilgrims.

Cardinal Beaudry, a native Canadian, having been born at Levis, across the St. Lawrence river from Quebec, in 1846. He is well known in Rome, where he was ordained to the priesthood in 1884.

Cardinal Di Maria, head of the Apostolic delegation to Canada and Newfoundland, has expressed the hope that the pilgrimage will be a success.

Lectures of support have been received from all the Canadian archbishops and bishops, several of whom will accompany the pilgrims. The Roman committee for the holy year has decided to reserve the last week of May as "the Canadian Week of the Holy Year."

Persian Envoy to Rome Transferred to Washington

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) TEHRAN, Persia, April 10.—Jalal Saltaneh, Persian minister to Rome, has been appointed minister to Washington. He was for twenty years attached to the Persian legation in London, and has an English wife.

GOLD INCASED ASHANTI CHIEFS RECEIVE WALES

KOMABE, Ashanti, April 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Prince of Wales today met the chiefs of the Ashanti at a grand palace after his arrival here this morning from Swaziland. The chiefs presented the prince with a gold duplicate of the Ashanti sword of state, made by local goldsmiths.

A noted figure among the chiefs was former King Fompreh, who was exiled by the British in 1866 to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian ocean. He was released last year and today was a member of the reception committee.

The scene was a perfect riot of gold, one chief being covered with massive gold ornaments that hung around his neck, wrists, ankles, and knees, while he carried huge bangles on his arms, while the executioners each had four large solid gold knives slung across their backs.

Some of the chiefs traveled 300 miles to attend.

The prince later attended a luncheon given by the Gold Coast regiment.

Telegraphers on G. N. and U. P. Given Wage Increase

Telegraphers employed by the Great Northern and Union Pacific railroads are granted a 3 cent an hour wage boost in a decision handed down by the United States railroad labor board. The award made by the federal adjustment board denied the request of the keymen on the Northern Pacific for a similar wage increase. Demands of station agents at non-telegraphic points for a wage boost were also refused by the railroad labor board.

Starts Suit to Collect Back Taxes of $179,952

Extending every effort in the collection of personal property taxes, Assistant State's Attorney Louis P. O'Connell yesterday announced he was about to commence suits in the Circuit court seeking the payment of $179,952 in delinquent taxes. The largest sum sought is $179,952, due from the Calumet and South Chicago Railway company, and suit for that amount was begun yesterday.

CHICAGOANS MAY TUNE IN ON FOLK SONGS OF ARCTIC

Details of plans for the expedition, headed by Donald B. MacMillan, which proposes to explore arctic territory never viewed before by human eyes, were made public yesterday by Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of the National Association of Broadcasters, who returned from Washington, D. C.

The expedition will leave Boston in June and establish a base at Etah with an advance airplane base at the northern tip of Axel Heiberg land.

To Take Three Airplanes.

There will be three airplanes equipped with map making cameras capable of mapping 750 miles of shore line at a width of ten miles. Because of the vast amount of equipment carried, MacMillan's staunch little craft, the Bowdoin, which bore him into the northland on eight previous occasions, will not be used. A larger boat will be necessary.

Radio enthusiasts may have the unique thrill of listening to the voice of an announcer telling of the daily progress of the expedition. It is hoped, Mr. McDonald said, that the voice can be transmitted on a twenty meter wave length from the arctic regions. This wave length will be stepped up to the usual radiating length and sent abroad from Chicago. Chicagoans, sweltering in midsummer heat, may listen to Eskimo folk songs from near the north pole.

Party to Number 41.

Each of the airplanes will carry a pilot, a navigator, and a photographer. The party of scientists and heavy personnel will total sixteen, and the crew of the ship will number twenty-five. News for dissemination in the press will be sent through the United States Navy and National Geographical society and distributed to all press associations.

Mr. McDonald and Mr. MacMillan will confer today in Chicago upon the personnel of the party.

A New Style Leader for Spring 1925

This new Light Tan, Feather-Weight Model shown on the Regal Platform is built over a new custom last. It is both light in color and light in weight, and expresses the Style Tendency for the 1925 Spring Season.

There is a recognized demand today for a more simplified pattern and slender appearance with a little "spring" in the last that adds a little spring to the step, concealing comfort in its custom lines.

The close trimmed sole with a beveled edge will give just as much wear without so much weight, and stands out in sharp contrast to the clumsy heavy brogue with the wide extension double sole.

We have a wonderful variety of distinctive patterns, leathers and lasts, that cover all requirements for street, dress and sport, but in this announcement we can only show six of the other sixty new Spring styles that we are selling today in 60 Regal Stores from New York to San Francisco for $6.60.

The purchasing power of a National institution, through concentration of its entire factory production on One Quality, shipping direct to its own chain of stores from coast to coast, and selling all styles at One low price and One small profit, makes it possible to give you greater value and more style for less money.

Miss Strachey
Tells in Fiction
of Chopin's Life

"The Nightingale" is a fictionalized life of Chopin. It will inevitably be compared to "Ariol" and so we may as well get that part of the review over with at once. It is done rather in the same manner—though Maurois is a Frenchman and therefore old in the tradition of the light touch, and the author of "The Nightingale" is an English woman and therefore not inclined to be so jaunty.

That she is the sister of Lytton Strachey doesn't seem to have given her the cruel and ironical attitude toward her subject that her brother took toward "Queen Victoria," with the result that she wrote one of the most amusing biographies ever written since writing has been done.

He tore from the poor dear queen the last shreds of reserve, and left her a creature who had gone wrapped to the neck, as it were, in convention, naked and rather fat and pitiful. Maurois's sharpness toward her subject, she has not made Chopin a fool. She has made him pitiful, but she plies him and therefore she cannot be wholly detached from him. And Maurois found Chopin a spirit so detached that he had no trouble in seeing him as a delicate irony.

Miss Strachey has told the story of Chopin, but for that story she has studied every available source of material about him. The conversations which she puts into his mouth are all reconstructed from his letters or from memories of his friends which have come down to us. She has probably done as true a fictional picture as anyone could do. For that reason "The Nightingale" is an important book.

If "The Nightingale" were a real life and not a fictionalized one there would be much to do about the episode of George Sand's daughter, Solange, and the disrupting of the friendship between her mother and her fragile and dependent lover. The recent rediscovers of the Chopin letters, believed to have been destroyed, has thrown light upon that dark period in Chopin's life.

If Miss Strachey had had any of her brother's cruelty toward her subject she would have made more than she gently does of the fact that Chopin was passionately devoted to the fashionable world and until circumstances almost threw him into her arms, not the least attracted by the radical world of George Sand. She does the relationship of Chopin and George Sand very well, indeed, though probably more kindly than either her brother or Maurois would have chosen to do it. You see, the comparison with "Ariol" and with her brother's biography will intrude itself.

With the life of John Keats still vivid in my mind, "The Nightingale" is in another finger to Miss Lowell's contention (made after consulting specialists) that Keats needs to have died had he lived in an age that understood how to combat tuberculosis.

ravaged by cold, wasting away into the mere breath of life, and that breath extinguished at the age of 29, seems such a waste of the material of beauty.

Lord Dunsany who has gone on a shooting trip up the White Nile, is publishing a volume of five plays in the early spring.

W. L. George has finished "The Story of Woman." It is described as a translation of the French life of the famous painter Van Gogh will shortly be published in London. His life was one of the tragedies of our time.

A Japanese professor in the Imperial University of Tokyo is editing a collection of Lafcadio Hearn's letters. A translation of the French life of the famous painter Van Gogh will shortly be published in London. His life was one of the tragedies of our time.

The Cave Girl
by Edgar Rice Burroughs
Creator of Tarzan

Here's a new heroine! A slim brown nymph who talks in gutturals, but has a fetching grace in scaling cliffs and coconut trees. And such a herol Palid, be-speckled, and learned—but not in the ways of words or women. Such are the characters of Edgar Rice Burroughs depicted against a jungle background peopled with a race closer to ape than to man. And it's a year you won't lay down till you've finished it.

The Rough Rider
by Robert Ames Bennett

He walked into a movie studio and pulled off a bit of rescue stuff that wasn't in the scenario, but it got him a job doing the hair-cutting scenes of the beautiful Beryl Blythe, while the high-priced hero came in on the close-ups and clinches.

You'll like the combination of rough Western life and movie-making—it makes the story doubly interesting.

"Here indeed is a feast and a store of riches. A source book not only for the historian, the biographer and the political annalist but for the explorer, the naturalist, the literary critic, the builders of armies and of navies, the makers of war and of peace, social and industrial reformers, lovers of country and all workers in great causes."

"The publication of a collection of letters such as we have here, written by one of the greatest actors on the world's stage, treating of historic events, the course of which he powerfully influenced and often directed, in a form which is at once full, intimate, contemporaneous and unreserved, is an incident of surpassing, almost of exciting, interest to the reading public."

"He Was a Intriguing of Jack"

WHEN WILLIAM LANE
reach, for there are European and American Jack London is the writer known to the vast American public. It has been the story of a man who has had the idea who this writer was. American writer never heard of a Jack London whom he pertained about.

Whether or not "He Was a Man" is a tale of fact furnished cannot say. That even of the framework of that most of us can London was not one of those spiritual die-went-as there seem talk of American writers. His contacts were, at best, by long extension, far from the actual life of the man who made few of the in Chicago which we pleasant state.

It was California, by the way, that was the scene of his life. Carmel and Oakland as written over with every in with Stevens, California, by any of all, but in the end, the tale one finds in "He Was a Man."

The first part of much more convincing last part. The relation to his utterance is impressively done. It has become a man as a father his outlines of the man who has lost his suspect that the reason he that the author knew London and found him human being that all are when we know the boy she probably never could picture him come.

But quite aside from the interest of the story is an interesting tale of the almost, if of a completely used sense, an inarticulate as he says, "by his of Rose Will Lane is a list that she is a novel. That is, she has sense of the spectacular, the novelist's patience to the climax."

The book is obviously worthy, however, and for collectors.

DECREASE SHOWN IN DEPOSITS OF CHICAGO'S BANKS

BY O. A. MATHER.

Preparations for the new crop season in the middle west, resumption of building operations on a broad scale, and some quickening in general business and industry are causing a moderate withdrawal of funds from Chicago banks. The country banks are withdrawing their deposits placed with the city banks during the winter months. City depositors are using some of their funds for property investments and loans for this and trade purposes are being increased.

This is the general situation as the spring season begins, as shown in reports of condition as of April 6, made by both Chicago national and state banks yesterday in response to calls for statements issued by the controller of the currency and the Illinois state auditor. The last previous statement was as of Dec. 31, 1924.

Deposits Decline $46,354,000. In the first three months of this year the consolidated statement for all Chicago banks shows loans and discounts increased $15,600,000, while total deposits and cash resources declined $46,354,000 and $31,125,000 respectively. Savings deposits declined only $488,000.

The loan expansion was confined to the national banks, which showed an increase of $17,548,000, whereas the state banks showed a decline of $181,000. The bulk of deposit withdrawals also fell to the national banks, which showed a decline of $31,329,000, compared with a reduction of $15,507,000 for the state banks. Cash resources of the national banks declined $17,775,000, while those of the state banks decreased $13,783,000. The slight decline in savings deposits was practically confined to the state banks.

Slump in Steel Shows.

Last month's slump in the steel industry was evidenced in the report on unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation, made public yesterday. Unfilled tonnage on March 31 totaled 4,882,564 tons, a decline of 412,507 tons compared with Feb. 28. This decline was larger than anticipated, estimates in the financial district recently having ranged from 200,000 to 400,000 tons.

Last month's decrease wiped out the gains made in January and February, and brings unfilled orders to the lowest level since Dec. 31, last, when the total was 4,816,676 tons. It also ends a string of increases which began last August. Orders are still slightly above a year ago, the total on March 31, 1924, having been 4,788,897 tons, and considerably above the low level of 3,187,072 tons on July 31, last year.

No Cause for Surprises.

The current figures give no occasion for surprise. Thursday's report on steel production during March showed an output practically at the season's maximum, 428,000 tons, against a record of last December, and never surpassed until this year, except in March, 1924, and May, 1923.

It was known in February that consumption was not fully keeping pace with the constantly increasing output. When, therefore, production led to the maximum of the season and deliveries were promptly made, the new orders might be far above the quantity placed a few months ago and yet the unfilled orders show a substantial decrease. Even with last month's reduction the total orders remaining for future delivery are larger than at the end of any month in 1924 and have not been matched since September, 1922.

Trends Reverses Cheerful.

The weekly mercantile trade reviews issued last night are moderately cheerful. The most active week of the year to date in retail trade is reported; also a trend toward reassurance regarding the larger significance of the fall in stocks. On the other hand, emphasis is still laid on the narrow margin of profit in many lines of trade at existing prices and difficulty of putting prices higher.

Nobody talks any longer of a trade boom, but the large volume of distribution and consumption indicated by freight loadings at high record for the season and by wholly unprecedented exchange of checks throughout the United States is perhaps more clearly recognized.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money in Chicago firm at 4 1/2 per cent on call; commercial paper, 4 1/4 per cent. Bankers' acceptance, 3 1/2 per cent. New York exchange, by wire, 2 1/2 per cent. Gold, 100.00. Chicago bank clearing yesterday was $10,100,000, compared with $12,000,000 a week ago and $10,700,000 a year ago.

Ujigawa Electric Power.

B. & B. Spokane, Wash.—Ujigawa Electric Power company, Limited, is one of the larger and older hydro-electric power companies in Japan. It owns seventeen electric power plants and has direct or through municipal or other distributors, a territory in central Japan having 188 cities, towns, and villages, with a total population of over 1,000,000. A considerable part of its machinery and equipment is of United States manufacture. It is issuing $1,000,000 first mortgage 7 per cent bonds, payable both interest and principal in United States gold coin. These bonds are secured by a closed first mortgage on fixed property costing over $27,000,000 after deducting depreciation. This is over 2.5 times the amount of these bonds. Net assets are over $12,000,000, or three times these bonds. Net earnings, after depreciation, for the five years ended Sept. 30, 1924, averaged $1,622,942 per annum, or over 2.4 times the $600,000 annual interest requirements on these bonds. Such earnings have increased in each of these years and have more than doubled since 1920. For the year ended Sept. 30, 1924, such earnings were $1,717,481, or over 2.8 times interest on these bonds. These bonds are followed by $5,000,000 debentures and $10,000,000 capital stock, paying 10 per cent dividends. These bonds offer an

PRODUCE

The strawberry market on Friday was weaker and prices were 25 to 50 cents lower, with receipts 11 cars and 1,000 cases. The first of the Alabama berries were on the market, but being poor, soft, and overripe, they did not sell well, although a few of the best went at $2.50 per 24 oz. container. The market was mainly at $4.50 to $5.00 for Potatoes were 5 to 10 cents higher, with a good trade, receipts being only 30 cars, and those were 100 to 150 bushels. Butter prices in Chicago and eastern markets were firmer, with some sales in Chicago at 10 to 12 cents advance in extra cream. Cheese markets were steady, with a fair business. Eggs were in better request, with prices about 25, 30 and 35 cents. Live hogs brought 1/2 cent advance and prices on other poultry were unchanged.

WHEAT TRADERS LOOK FOR PRICES TO RISE TODAY

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

All the grain, cotton, sugar and coffee exchanges in the United States and the foreign grain and stock exchanges were closed in observance of Good Friday yesterday.

The wheat trade expects higher prices today, as the result of the bullish government report given out after the close on Thursday, showing 474,000,000 bushels of winter wheat, or 114,000,000 bushels short of last year's harvest. The effect of the report was somewhat modified in the minds of a good many traders owing to recent light showers to fair rains in the southwest and middle west, where they were most needed, and by reports of improvement since April 4.

There has been an advance of 17 cents in May wheat and 10 cents in July from the low of last Friday. This has brought about a moderate readjustment, as the decline in prices of last week was regarded as discounting all bearish influences and as having gone too far. At the same time a larger short interest was created on the decline than the trade supposed and the evening up has materially assisted in advancing prices.

Part of Duluth Stocks Sold.

Reports from Duluth say there are 5,000,000 bushels of wheat there sold to go out after navigation opens, leaving around 2,500,000 bushels to be disposed of. There is a better milling demand for spring wheat of late and, while there is talk of wheat being brought from the northwest to Chicago for May delivery and there is a shipping difference between the northwestern markets and Chicago, it is a question of securing elevator room for it. Private crop reports from winter wheat sections are showing a little improvement as a result of rains. Conditions, as indicated by the government report, are far below the average.

Conditions in the northwest are good, with seedling of small grains further advanced than usual. Van Dusen Harrington, Minneapolis, in their first report of this season, say the northwest up to this time has had a remarkably fine spring for all farm work. In the absence of heavy rains farmers have been in the field continually, and wheat seedling which started the latter part of March is now general in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Montana.

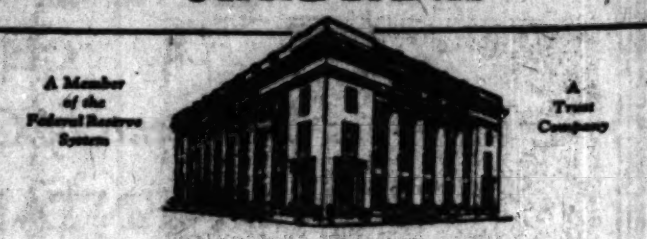

Seedling Finished in Places.

In some districts of South Dakota, southern Minnesota, and North Dakota, wheat seedling has been completed. The ground generally, throughout the whole territory, is in fine condition, with sufficient surface moisture, although from some points there have been complaints of insufficient moisture in the subsoil. Some coarse grains are being sold in southern Minnesota and South Dakota and it is a general belief that all available lands will be cultivated this season due to the good prices. A moderate increase in the acreage in wheat and barley is expected.

Van Dusen Harrington reports also indicate very little grain on the farms about seedling and test requirements, the bulk having been moved at the high prices during the winter. The general sentiment throughout the northwest shows a great change for the better. The general crop situation in the northwest is most promising and with a continuation of present weather all seedling should be completed much earlier than in the average year.

LABOR LEADERS SEE PERIL IN BIRTH CONTROL

BY SCRUTATOR.

Birth control has moved from the realm of social feminism to that of industrial discussion. The national industrial conference board, following the message of Mrs. Sanger's disciples to President Coolidge, urging the formation of a federal birth rate commission to study the population question, has issued figures purporting to show that our present rate of population increase will be insufficient to take care of the labor needs of the nation's industries in a few years.

In view of what is disclosed by the 1923 census of manufactures and the record of railroad performance since 1919, which show so much greater output of goods and transportation, with less men per unit of output, it is hard to become alarmed over the board's calculations from a production point of view. It is hard to believe that the board is taking full account of the rapid displacement of labor by machinery. We are going to have more, not less, of that. Machine loading in coal mines, now a live issue between union and operators in some coal fields, is going to release more and more men for other tasks. Similar prospects appear in most of the heavy industries.

However, a stationary population carries serious implications from the standpoint of consumption of the national output, military affairs, and international policies.

Probably the heaviest blow recently struck against the birth control theory was by Louis L. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who believes that even the present natural population increase is deceptive, because there is at present an excess of adults of reproductive age in America, as the result of higher birth rates in prior generations, and with the passing of the present adult generation a more rapid lowering of the rate will take place. The industrial conference board's view is that the natural population increase in America amounts to but 10 per 1,000 yearly. In 1920 the excess of births over deaths gave an increment of 1,100,000 people. In 1924 what is left of this 1,100,000 will be the maximum labor supply available.

Only 75 per cent will have survived to that date. Applying to this number the ratio of the gainfully employed to the total population, the conference board draws the conclusion that less than 400,000 workers will be available from the 1920 natural population increment. Obviously this is too low, because the ratio of the gainfully employed to the total population is not the ratio that will prevail among those 16 years old and over, but the error is of no great consequence.

Since 1900 American industries have absorbed 62,000 workers per year, of whom 500,000 went to agriculture, mining, manufacturing, transportation, and mechanical trades. Theoretically a shortage seems inevitable.

But will this not result in such wage increases as to draw into those trades more of those who now go into professional and commercial pursuits? Will this not force a simplification of distribution, a weeding out of middlemen and other things that the people and "people's friends" have been clamoring for?

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., April 10.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: The demand for wool has continued in a healthy fashion and it is possible there has been slightly more business during the week, although prices are still irregular, occasionally a lot lower, and from the seller's point of view, decidedly unsatisfactory. The goods market is still sluggish. The foreign markets are irregular. Little new is reported in the mohair market, although prices rather better the buyers.
